THE D.A.I.L.Y. AI PROTOCOL

A practical guide to keeping you in charge while learning with AI.

D

Transparency is the ultimate flex.

eclare the support.

When AI has contributed to your learning, be sure to cite it like any other source.

A

Your perspective is the point.

dd the soul.

You must add your voice, your specific examples, and your own ideas to your work.

I

Trust, but verify.

nterrogate the facts.

AI hallucinates and lies confidently. Check every piece of information before you use it.

L

Always start with your thoughts.

ead the learning.

Draft your ideas first, then use AI to support the development. You set the direction of your learning.

Y

The responsibility is yours.

ou own it.

You are the editor-in-chief. If an error slips through, the responsibility is yours. You submit your work, you own it.

THE 3Cs Check

ALIGNMENT

Am I using AI to support my learning or am I using AI to shortcut my learning? Use the 3Cs to check.

Critical Thinking. Am I thinking, or is the AI?

The Rule: AI should be a gym buddy, not a surrogate. If the AI lifts the weights for you, you don't get the muscles.

Test: Can you explain why the AI gave that answer?

Citation. Can I admit I used this?

The Rule: Transparency is the difference between a tool and a trick.

Test: Do you feel comfortable sharing how you used AI with your teacher?

Correction. Did I verify it?

The Rule: You are the Editor-in-Chief. You are responsible for every word you turn in.

Test: Did you double-check the facts?
